

Hello there,

We are happy to hear that you are ready to have us revisit your yard and check-out the progress you made toward Backyard Habitat Certification.

The current pandemic has compelled us to be extra careful when visiting people's yards. To ensure that both you and our team are protected, we have developed guidelines that we are asking you to follow. Please fill out this form to indicate that you have read and agree with those guidelines.

Our program has an excellent team of volunteers trained to conduct certification visits. Once we receive your form response, it can take us a few weeks to recruit a volunteer that lives near you and is available to visit. Once we find someone, we will introduce the two of you via email so you can coordinate a date that works for you both.

One thing that would help us is for you to re-check your original site report and the certification criteria in advance of scheduling with the volunteer. Should you find any last thing still needing work, just let us know so we will give you more time.

We also recommend doing a quick sweep of your yard the morning of your scheduled visit to pick up any dog poop and pluck any persistent noxious plants that could be sprouting back again.

Stay tuned and, most important of all, thanks for being already contributing to a better, more wildlife-friendly city.

Warm regards,
